

Halsall St. Cuthbert's school is holding a 100th anniversary!

By Lois Cringle

This Saturday Halsall school is holding a 100th anniversary. Pupils, teachers and parents will be coming along to help. Get your children in their best clothes.

The pupils now learn art, maths, science, P.E, history, grammar and R.E.

Mr. Scholes said "Thank you for coming to celebrate our 100th birthday with us."

Above: A 1930s' view of the school buildings.

Halsall School was founded in 1593 by Edward Halsall. The current building was built in 1904. Their lessons were reading, learning time tables and spellings, arithmetic, grammar and composition. In 1956 the school's assembly hall was built, the entrance was built in 1971, the offices however was built in 2001. Class L was built in 2006 and the staff room was built in 2015.

The warm welcome will never change.