

BIRTHDAY BASH HITS HALSALL`S STREET

By Sophia Henderson

Last week, Halsall st Cuthbert's hit their 100th anniversary. The children had a big feast served by the PTFA. They wore their best clothes and enjoyed playing games with their friends.

Halsall is a very welcoming school. Everyone is very happy there and there aren't really any mean faces out there. The teachers are of the finest quality. Mr Scholes says "I'm very proud of my school."

Halsall st Cuthbert's was built in 1593. Since then, many things have changed, for instance, Class L's area was built in 2006 for year 1 and reception. This school has always added extra activities. Halsall also has a hall which was opened in 1956. The first school trip took place in 1931 for year 6.

Halsall st Cuthbert's is a fabulous school. If you are interested in sending your child to this school, go to the website to find out more and see some pictures.
